The Fairhaven

High School

To the boys of the Class of 1945 who are now in the service of our country, we dedicate this issue of

The Huttlestonian,

in memory of their care-free days at Fairhaven High School.

In appreciation of our class advisor, Miss Cecile Giguere, who through her patient guidance has helped to make our high school days happy and successful.

ON THE DEATH OF THE LAST WARRIOR

High on Mount Olympus
Above the valley's hollow,
Met three gods of Greece and Rome,
Mercury, Mars, Apollo.

Below lay the graves of warriors
In rows from history's dawn.
Save his, the last to fall
In the last Armageddon.

The Winged One stopped to look upon
The young face etched in pain,
Then sped the soul to Elysium,
The heritage of the slain.

Apollo cleaved a grave for him
With a sunbeam for a stone,
And raised a mound of asphodels
For a soldier's home.

Grim Mars, whose bloody fist
The jagged spears of war had thrust
Into this Helot's eager hand,
Now painted them with rust

Then leaving them beside him,
He spoke no last farewell,
But clanged his bloody sword of war
In the crimson sheath of hell.

So there 'neath Mount Olympus,
His face turned to the west,
The kiss of time upon his brow,
The last was laid to rest.

Class History

1945

What a day September 14, 1941 was! The class of 1945 was at last in high school! Yes, we had been in the buildings before as eighth graders, but now we had acquired that royal title of "High Schoolers".

While we are sitting here in the 106 seats in Room 7 we look back and recall four years of hard studying in which time our class diminished in size with the increasing of Uncle Sam's forces. Yet, but we all see four years of fun with dances, the class play, assemblies, proms, and two operettas!

We can proudly boast of being the first senior class to achieve 100% sale of war stamps. We are proud to be the graduating class of 1945—the year Fairhaven knocked the fatal blow into the New Bedford-Fairhaven football records by winning that game 12-7. We are proud of the amount of work that our class has done in the previous years to make the Service Boys' Christmas cards and the Honor Roll such a success.

Large pink flowers decorated the gym for the Spring Dance—the first social affair that we put on as the class of 1945. Miss Anna Peters was class adviser, and with Donald Dumont, class president;

John Babbitt, vice president; Faith Lincoln, secretary; and Shirley Roderrick, treasurer, made this dance a huge success. What we remember best about that first dance was the Conga that was led by Faith Lincoln.

Even though we travelled to the old building for lunch when in the eighth grade, this was the first year that we had a constant change of classes from one building to the other. At the end of the first week the majority of us wondered how we could ever manage climbing all those stairs every day. But now, after four years of climbing, it is almost second nature. Often we meet our friends, and for a few minutes between classes, we chat with them about the algebra test or some other occurrence.

The year 1942 rolled around, when some Mattapoisett students joined our class. Now that we were in the old building, we had to compete with higher classes. So hard we did try! Do you remember those poems Henry Fisher used to write to try to persuade us to buy war stamps? I suppose his effort was worth while because Room 17, a Sophomore home room, was always first to report 100% in the sale of war stamps and also in the collection of class dues.

Soon our first, Sophomore, social activity was taking place—the Fall dance in November. Miss Giguere worked hard to make this the success that it was. Robert Barnicle, president; Judith Barstow, vice president; Janice Braley, secretary; Priscilla Gurney, treasurer,—all worked diligently at the job of making the class of 1945 the perfect class.

In February the operetta, Shreds and Patches, was presented. Included in the cast were many of our sophomore classmates. The proceeds were turned over to the Red Cross. Directly after this, the perpetually active sophs had another "get together" — the Flag Dance in April. This was held in the gymnasium artistically decorated with flags.

Soon the Sophomore year ran into the Junior year with more hard work but a lot more fun. High School is fun, don't you think so?

The Junior Year in high school has often been said to be the hardest of all years. Maybe that is true, but there certainly is enough fun and enjoyment included to balance the work.

Many of us remember how Donald Sisson, Carl McDermott, Carolyn Dudgeon, and Priscilla Gurney, our class officers, and Miss Cecile Giguere, class adviser, worked with the executive committee for many afternoons cutting and pasting hearts for our Valentine Dance in February. What weather blew against our gym, while we danced inside! Sufficient snow fell, and the wind blew hard enough to have the weather-man report it as the worst storm of the season. Still we danced! All had an extraordinarily good time even though we did have to shovel ourselves out.

This year we were proud to have fourteen members of our class initiated into the National Honor Society. The following were the initiates: Merrill Branaman, Janice Braley, Norma Duckworth, Audrey Sherberg, Samuel Gomes, Judith Barstow, Ellen Gifford, Sylvia Fernandes, Joan Hobson, Madeline Soares, Joan Murley, Mary Finnoch, Mary Packwood, and John Babbitt. The first four were chosen respectively president, vice president, secretary and treasurer.

Then, of course, as always was the Junior Prom in May. Because we like to be different, our class held our prom in the assembly hall. Greens and pine trees intermingled with thousands of natural and artificial flowers transformed the hall into a large, open garden with settees around the walls. The orchestral music floated out from among tall cedar and pine trees on a stage lined with flower boxes.

To carry our originality still further, this year we crowned a Junior Prom king as well as a queen. Their majesties, Raymond Harding and Judith Barstow, reviewed from the seat of honor, under a garden trellis, a large and beautiful grand march.

Soon would come the day when we would at last be Seniors. But more important to us was the day set aside for the class of 1945—Junior Day. At that time we juniors took over the seats which were to be ours in the senior year. Advice, both beneficial and humorous, was handed out by both the seniors and the juniors. That night the class held a Junior Day Dance. An enjoyable time was had by all who attended.

September — 1944! Seniors at last! Much depends upon the officers that we choose as the leaders of our final year in high school. We elected Samuel Gomes, president; Henry Fisher, vice president; Carolyn Dudgeon, secretary; and Charlotte Wing, treasurer. The executive committee consisted of Betty Wilde, Ruth Perkins, Robert Wenstrom, Merrill Branaman, Ray Harding, James Scott and Clayton Morgan. With Miss Giguere, we cut our fruit and Horns of Plenty from colored paper to help decorate the gym for the Harvest Dance, our first social function of the year.

The school benefited in many ways from this dance. Ray Harding popped out with a remarkable flair for advertising. Everywhere one looked he would see Ray's clever lines announcing the November dance. Since then, the senior class has used its "Longfellow" member for various jobs of advertising.

The class play, Such Things Happen, was presented amid laughter and suspense. Fun combined with work filled the eight weeks of rehearsals. Henry Fisher, Ray Harding, James Scott, Joseph Gonet, Robert Barnicle, "Judy" Barstow, Jane Martin, Ruth Perkins, Jane Ratajack, and Nancy Eldredge worked hard in their different parts to make the play such a success.

All in all, there is a unanimous vote that the four years we spent at Fairhaven High School were probably four of the happiest years of our lives. We gained much from those four years, and there are many fond memories that we shall always cherish in our hearts.

Organizations

and

Activities

The Student Council

The Student Council is the most active organization in the school. Members are representative of each class, and take an active part in nearly all school activities.

This year, the most worthy project that the council undertook was the sending of Christmas Cards to 750 former Fairhaven High School students who are now in the Armed Services. The sale of War Stamps and Bonds has been promoted, and an American Red Cross Field Ambulance has been purchased. Members of the Council have planned and participated in numerous patriotic assemblies. Many other smaller activities have been undertaken, and it has been a most successful year.

The officers of the Student Council for the year 1944-1945 are Audrey Sherberg, President; Ronald Desruisseau, Vice President; Beryl Raybold, Secretary-Treasurer.

Norma Duckworth, '45

The Honor Society

The Fairhaven High School Chapter of the National Honor Society is one of the most worthwhile organizations in the entire school. Founded on the four ideals of Scholarship, Leadership, Character, and Service, it is both an honor and a privilege to become a member. Students are chosen on the basis of scholastic achievement and service to the school, and are initiated at an impressive ceremony held in March of each year. New officers are installed in June. The emblem of the society is the shield and flaming torch, and its colors are blue and yellow.

Officers of the society for the year 1944-1945 are Merrill Branaman, President; Janice Braley, Vice President; Norma Duckworth, Secretary; Audrey Sherberg, Treasurer. Active members, all of the class of 1945, are John Babbitt, Judith Barstow, Sylvia Fernandes, Ellen Gifford, Samuel Gomes, Joan Hobson, Joan Murley, Mary Packwood, and Madeline Soares.

Norma Duckworth, '45

The Band

The band, under the direction of Clarence W. Arey, has been an active group in public and school functions. Consisting of sixty-three players, from grades eight to twelve, the organization has experienced a busy season.

For the first time this year, the band has attended every out of town football game in addition to each home game. A selected band ensemble played for numerous assemblies and civic functions, including the Boys' Club and Lions' Club.

Each week the members have paid dues, which will go towards the annual trip to Boston in the spring. A marching band was organized for participation in parades.

Norma Duckworth, '45

The Orchestra

This year the orchestra has again been divided in two sections in order that a high quality of music may be maintained. The Junior Orchestra, of fifty-three members, is under the direction of Miss Mary Cook, and includes students from grades eight to ten.

The Senior Orchestra, which is composed of fifty-six advanced players, is under the direction of Clarence W. Arey. This advanced group has played for numerous assemblies and public functions. A nucleus from this orchestra contributed fine music to the operetta "H. M. S. Pinafore".

Out of the Senior Orchestra, an advanced ensemble of fourteen players has been formed. This group may again be sub-divided into quartets, trios, duets, or soloists as public occasion demands, and performs when small groups are desirable.

Senior Play Jingles

The annual Senior Play, "Such Things Happen", was presented on April 6, 1945 in the large auditorium. It was a comedy-mystery of the "Who Dun It"? variety, and afforded much pleasure to a capacity audience.

The great bard has said that the play is the thing
So of '45's Thespians now let me sing
Of "Such Things Happen", and the fun that we had,
The times we were good, and the times we were bad.

Though Valerie (Judy) at first was a flirt,
And treated poor David (Ray Harding) like dirt,
She finally realized the worth of her lover
When Philip's duplicity all did discover.

Though Philip (young Bob) was carefree and gay,
He was shown in the end that "crime doesn't pay".
One would actually think Sinatra was crooning,
When Bertha (our Ruth) started shrieking and swooning.

"Scatters" Gonet was a gardener efficient,
In helping out Farleigh, he proved most proficient.
While Farleigh (Bud Scott) a Scotland Yard Cop,
By clever detecting cut the Gordian knot.

Ursula (Jane M.) played the spinster so wise,
Who helped young romance over hardship to rise.
Then little Jane R., our Barbara so sweet,
Had Henry, the "wolf", in love at her feet.

Miss Featherstone (Nancy) acted the lady,
But was found to be mixed with characters shady
In the success of the play and of every actor,
Miss Hoyle was, as always, a powerful factor.

We had a great time all working together.
We attended rehearsals come sun or foul weather.
"Yet we wouldn't have missed it"! so all of us say,
That grand thrill of being in our Senior Play.

Nancy H. Eldredge, '45

H. M. S. Pinafore

An outstanding musical event of the past school year was the brilliant rendition by members of the school chorus and special ensemble of the Gilbert and Sullivan Operetta, H. M. S. Pinafore.

Mrs. Marguerite Johnson, supervisor of vocal music, did an excellent job of molding the various talents of the chorus into a group, well capable of interpreting the tricky passages of the light opera.

Miss Elizabeth Hastings, instrumental supervisor, coached the accompanying ensemble, and it is a tribute to her ability that she was able to lead an excellently toned group of musicians, despite the fact that she did all this on hurried trips from her duties elsewhere.

The plot of the production is familiar to those of the past generation, but provided a new experience for those of us who do not remember the time of the first automobile. It follows a formula which, according to Hollywood, should never succeed in audience appeal, but it has been drawing capacity crowds since its first appearance.

We start out with a handsome young tar, Ralph Rackstraw, languishing over his love for the beautiful Captain's daughter, Josephine. Social position, however, prevents their union, and Josephine is to be married to one Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., First Lord of the Admiralty. When Josephine's pride is overcome by her love for the handsome sailor, they vow to softly steal away, and be married that night. A series of disconcerting adventures take place when Dick Deadeye, a villainous member of the crew, tattles their plan to the captain. Captain Corcoran cannot contain himself, and throws Ralph into irons while he cries, "Damme!" Alas, he is overheard by Sir Joseph and his prim family of sisters, cousins, and aunts, and soon finds himself following Ralph to the dungeon.

All is straightened out by Little Buttercup, the old bumboat woman, who announces that she had custody of Ralph and the captain when they were babies. She somehow mixed them up and it develops that the captain is actually Ralph, and Ralph, the captain. The finally happy scene finds Corcoran and Buttercup, Captain Rackstraw and Josephine, Sir Joseph and his cousin Hebe, all about to be happily married.

Gordon Baker, a senior, and Elaine Godreau, a sophomore, played Ralph and Josephine, with excellent interpretation. Sir Joseph was acted by William Rogers and Sir Joseph's Cousin Hebe was Marianne Rogers. Both are Juniors.

Judith Barstow and James Carreiro, seniors, portrayed the harassed captain of the Pinafore and his rosy sweetheart. Dick Deadeye, the humpbacked villain, was acted by Gardner Fassett, while Preston Gifford and Henry Fisher, a junior and a senior, were the ship's Boatswain and Carpenter's Mate.

Preston Gifford, '46

The Cheerleaders

Again the cheerleaders have shown themselves worthy of praise as they cheered the team on to a victorious year. Despite the fact that only three football games were played on Fairhaven soil, the cheerleaders and many faithful supporters managed to obtain transportation to the outlying towns.

The squad of 1945 consists of Charlotte Wing, head cheerleader; Betty Wilde, Jane Martin and Shirley Cowen, the seniors; Kay Ann McKnight and Beryl Raybold, the juniors; Martha Wardick, Janice Hayden and Elaine Godreau, the sophomores. The squad totals nine, which might be considered a lucky number, for it certainly proved to be a very successful year.

Beryl Raybold, '46

The M. I. T. Tournament

What an athletic group of boys we had this year! They were not satisfied in beating New Bedford in football, but a number of these same boys capably assisted by a few others fought for a bid to the M. I. T. Tournament. Yes, I mean fought because they really had some stiff competition.

The Fairhavenites were definitely handicapped when they played their first game on the large Boston floor. Their captain, the speedy "Jep" Lopes, had all the bad breaks as many of his shots fell just a little short of their mark. This was due to the fact that he had injured his right shoulder in the Dartmouth game, when he collided with Dartmouth's brute-like "Don" Sisson. However, he was a "high-scorer" of the Framingham game when he made the charity toss after the game had ended.

We would not say that it was stage fright that kept our usual "high-scorer" Ralph "Swisher" Bradley from putting more balls through the hoops; it was just that a piece of the glass back-board always seemed to cover the basket when he shot. Nevertheless he finally broke this barrier, and was on his merry way when, alas, he had a collision! This accident was in the last quarter. "Swisha" was carried off and was out of the Braintree game. We needed him, too.

The little man of the team was good, as usual, and would have been something in a class by himself if his opponents had been his size. I think that he was somewhat self-conscious from the first. He had been nominated for the office of the "Darling of the Tournament". The Fairhaven crowd really thought he was, because they could be heard cheering for their own "Darling" Morgan.

"Billy" Wilson gave "Claytie" competition keeping this title,—or did you not hear about the meal at the Coffee Shop? I heard "Bill" say that those glass backboards were deceiving. You had to shoot off the rim instead of the boards.

"Manny" Pacheco was always the quick-tempered member of the team. But his self-control was remarkable in that he was very easy-going on the big city's court. His spunk was really something of which to be proud. He gave his best to combine with the talented offerings of the others.

The real fight for our team was exhibited by "Dizzy" Dean. Sometimes it was we who were "dizzy" by his "keep-the-ball" attitude. However, Dean was at his best in the first game (this may have been due to his "friendly" bets). He was also good in the game with Braintree, but in trying to make-up for the loss of "Swisha", he was fouled-out early in the second half. What the Fairhaven crowd wanted to know was why the referee did not call a foul on the Braintree player who so neatly kicked "Dizzy"!

"Sammy" Gomes frightened the Fairhaven cheering sections when he made four fouls early in the first game. He seemed determined to fool us and played through the rest of the tournament in grand style. He was always ready to take the ball and give the other team trouble trying to keep it.

Is there any wonder that we are proud of our coach and team? After all, it is the first time that Fairhaven has received an M. I. T. bid, and ours was the only team from Southeastern Massachusetts to stay in for the semi-finals.

The Class Prophecy of 1945

One afternoon, having installed a new radio-television set in my twenty-room convertible mansion, I decided to tune in on Fairhaven to review the scenes of my high school days. As I was setting the dial on the right beam, my thoughts travelled back to the exciting reign of the Class of '45 in Fairhaven High School. I had a great incentive to find out if those terrifying students had been successes or whether they had all landed in Sing Sing.

Deep in thought and concentration I looked up and realized that on the screen in front of me was the high school. Imagine my surprise when I could see into the office.

Ruth Perkins and Sylvia Fernandes were sitting there "catting" about the new, handsome principal. Sylvia has taken Miss Texeira's job, and is quite an efficient, little secretary. Ruth, however, has really come up in the world. She has the Position of Dean of Girls! While they were gossiping, who should come running in with more news, (this time about "Alec" Young, the coach,) but Shirley Cowen. Shirley is the School Nurse. As the scene shifted I heard Sylvia say, "First you get into his office, and then—". That is all I was able to hear.

The screen blurred, and when it had cleared I was in what looked like "Joe" Cury's old store. It was in the same place, but there was a new sign in front, "Gump's Rest Sanitarium". In small letters underneath I read, "Women Not Allowed". Television is a marvelous invention and before I knew it, I was in. Contrary to the sign there were many women there. Some of them I recognized as old friends. Faith Lincoln, Betty Wilde, Charlotte Wing, Shirley Roderick, Carolyn Dudgeon, and Edna-May Denzler were sitting around a table in the corner knitting for the Red Cross. All except Betty and Edna-May were in nurse's uniforms. Betty was trying to decide whether she should live in Mattapoisett or New Bedford. Edna-May is a great Metropolitan Opera Star now. She is a mezzo-soprano, and goes under the name of Madame Yackey. Dick Pierce, her manager, once sent me some free passes for one of her performances. I could not stay long, though, because the oxygen was too thin way up there.

Shirley, who has never been able to make up her mind which man to choose, wanted "Dudge" to go on a blind date with her and her present fiance. "Dudge" refused, and said that she had to be home early to prepare supper for her husband.

The scene switched again to Cushman Park. There Audrey Sherberg assisted by Ronald Desruisseau, was standing on a soap box giving a speech on a new town government. There were quite a few people listening to her.

I noticed Frances Pardee there with her family. Standing next to her was Eugene Duval and his wife. Her name used to be Dorothy Howarth. "Gene" still manages to keep that suave French look.

Looking across the park, I discovered why there was so many people. The town was giving a fair. There were a great many booths, including one that sold kisses for $2.00 apiece. Jane Ratajack, Jean Barber, "Dot" Jepson, and Miriam Jason were doing a booming business. Some of the boys around the booth I recognized as "Al" Benac, "Bob" Barnicle, John Gouveia and "Al" McQuillan. All seemed to be enjoying themselves, but I heard "Bob" ask "Mac" to lend him a "fin" until payday.

The next booth dealt with kitchen utensils. Anna Barboza, Ethel Furtado, and Grace Smith had made aprons, pot-holders, and towels to sell at the fair. They wanted a good looking, resourceful young man to display them, so Faye Owens obliged. He was giving a salestalk to Ruby Nemec and Teresa Mello about a new-fangled gadget that would take the place of a housewife. The girls could not see why anything should take their places.

Opposite this was a booth selling stuffed animals. On the other side of the counter were Gordon Baker, Bradley Bennett, (better known as "Horrible Harlow"), Donald Dumont, John Babbitt, and John Lougee. The boys had been saving their stuffed animals since their Senior year, and with the help of the Martin sisters, and Merrill Branaman ("Little Eva") had made an attractive display of pink and blue dolls. Baker was working on another animal, and stuck the needle into his thumb. There are some words that can not be printed.

The scene shifted to the bandstand. I noticed the name "Dean-tonian's" on the music stands. "Dizzy" Dean was the leader. He is a second Harry James, now, and gets five dollars for every note he triple-tongues. "Etta" Dias was swinging on her saxophone, and some, really, hot jive was pouring out. Nancy Wardick and Alberta Silver were playing, too. Henry Fisher, their manager, was trying to get "Diz" to play "Take It Jackson". I guess they wanted to recapture their old days at the "Rio Lounge" (better known as the "Rio Louge" in Shirley Roderick's back yard.

The next thing I heard was some woman speaking on hairdressing. I was not too surprised to see Eileen Ledwell. She was talking to Marjorie Young, "Pat" Wilbor, Elsie Taber, and Rose Staffieri. Eileen was telling them to put up their hair with pine needles instead of curlers, every night because the former would give the hair a nice scent.

In the middle of the park, were a group of dancing girls. I saw Joanne Evans, the star, doing a dance that looked like a case of jitters. I saw a sign advertising the "Evan's Production of Dazzling Dancers". The other dancers were Arlene Cabral, Martha Delano, Nancy Eldredge, Gilda Gubellini, "Betty" Meehan, and Shirley Monaghan. It was quite a production!

Turning the dial, I spied Judith Barstow in the crowd. (Television is marvelous, as I have said before.) She is a great actress now, and is second in stage history, only to Sarah Bernhardt. She was talking to Norma Duckworth (now teaching in Mr. Lawton's place) and Ellen Gifford. Phyllis Haydon and Joan Hobson came along at that moment. Phyllis is a famous aviatrix. She was the first woman to fly around the world in less than an hour. The girls were talking about Ray Harding. He has quite a reputation as a play writer.

Having tired of the fair, I decided to take a look at Main Street. Before I could switch the scene, however, I noticed a group behind one of the booths. Albert Caron, Antone Fernandes, "Joe" Gonet, "Bill" Keane, Harold Lawton, Everett Ransom, Clayton Morgan, and Malvin Kristiansen were having a discussion on strategy. What kind, I could not find out, but I heard Lawton say, "First, you creep up behind; then, when your position is favorable—".

Glancing up the street, I noticed a new establishment. That is, I had not seen it before. A sign above the door read "Griffin's Baby Nursery — Day and Night Rates". I gathered that Shirley Griffin was the proprietor. I looked in the window and saw that Alice Anthony, Emily Doberck, and Jeanette Fuller were there. I had heard that these girls were making a good salary taking turns with the little darlings. At least I know where to leave mine the next time I make a visit in person!

Going on further, I was surprised at the changes in the town, in ten years. Ferguson's Taxi Stand had been turned into a F. H. S. Alumni Club. Pauline Andrews, had been running the club so successfully that everyone was going there. "Jimmey" Carreiro, "Manny" Pacheco, and Irving Macomber had charge of the entertainment. Gloria Serpa was decorating, and Madeline Soares, Parker Eldredge and "Jimmy" Darling were in charge of cooking the meals. I have heard that "Jimmy" can bake a cake better than any girl.

Across the street where Browne's used to be, I saw a sign which read, "Clayton, Lopes, Silver, and Wilson". The place is still a drug store, but Silver is the brains of the outfit. (So he told me.) The other three are the bouncers. All Silver does is go fishing, (so the others told me). I heard that the only reason "Jep" works there is to keep in training for the football and basketball season. One year he made the "All American Team". In the back room they kept a record shop. I noticed a picture on the wall of Joan Murley advertising classical opera. Claire Whiting, Barbara Vaughan, and James Gibbs have charge of the shop. "Jimmey" runs a very efficient advertising campaign. Lillian Quintin keeps his books for him.

Next door, I saw that "Ernie" Parker and "Brad" Pierce had started an escort service. They had hired "Dick" Dennie to teach "Sammy" Gomes, "Stretch" Morris, "Jimmy" Scoott, Donald Sisson, Carl McDermott and "Bob" Wenstrom how to be the perfect escorts. It is too bad someone did not think of the idea ten years ago. Shirley Stetson, Evelyn Jackna, Mary Packwood, and Irene Rapoza were the receptionists. Betty Tetrault kept the books. There seemed to be a great deal of receiving and bookkeeping. A great many people were waiting in the reception room.

With many fond thoughts in my mind, I turned off the television set. I was exhausted after my afternoon sight-visit, but happy to know that the Class of '45 had, for the most part, been so successful.

I close what is written here with these last words!

IF YOU DON'T LIKE THE PROPHECY, DON'T BLAME ME. BLAME MODERN INVENTIONS.

Janice Braley, '45

Sports

Football

"Wait till next year!"

Many loyal F. H. S. rooters have echoed these words in vain year after year since 1937. Finally their hopes were not denied them when, under the excellent leadership of Mr. Entin, the football team of 1944 defeated New Bedford High 12-7.

This memorable Armistice Day climaxed one of the most successful Fairhaven football seasons in many years with a record of five wins, one loss, and a tie.

Second row: Edward Belmers, James Carreiro, Daniel Mahoney, August Bonito, Anthony Lopes, Alexander Young, Ralph Bradley, Bradford Pierce, Norbett Desroches.

Third row: Napoleon Olivera, Harold Lawton, Robert Wenstrom, Donald Sisson, Arlindo Dias, Alfred MacQuillan, Carl McDermott, James Scott, Robert Barnicle, Warren Griffin, William Shappell, Victor Slater, Melvin Entin.

Fourth row: Rockland Pina, Henry Fisher, Paul Patnaude, Lester Crampton, Sterling Wilson, Earl Hanna, George Christansen, Richard Sylvia, Allen Tinkam, John Gage, Kenneth Peirce, Henry Barteau, Kenneth Hemingway, Peter Briggs, Clayton Morgan, Robert Sylvia, John Mello, Edward Duval, Carl Voigt.

A hard earned 7-0 triumph over Vocational along with the defeat of New Bedford gave added honors to our team as football champions of Greater New Bedford.

By virtue of this successful season, the lettermen were awarded sweaters from the Fairhaven Business Men's Association and silver footballs from the Athletic Association.

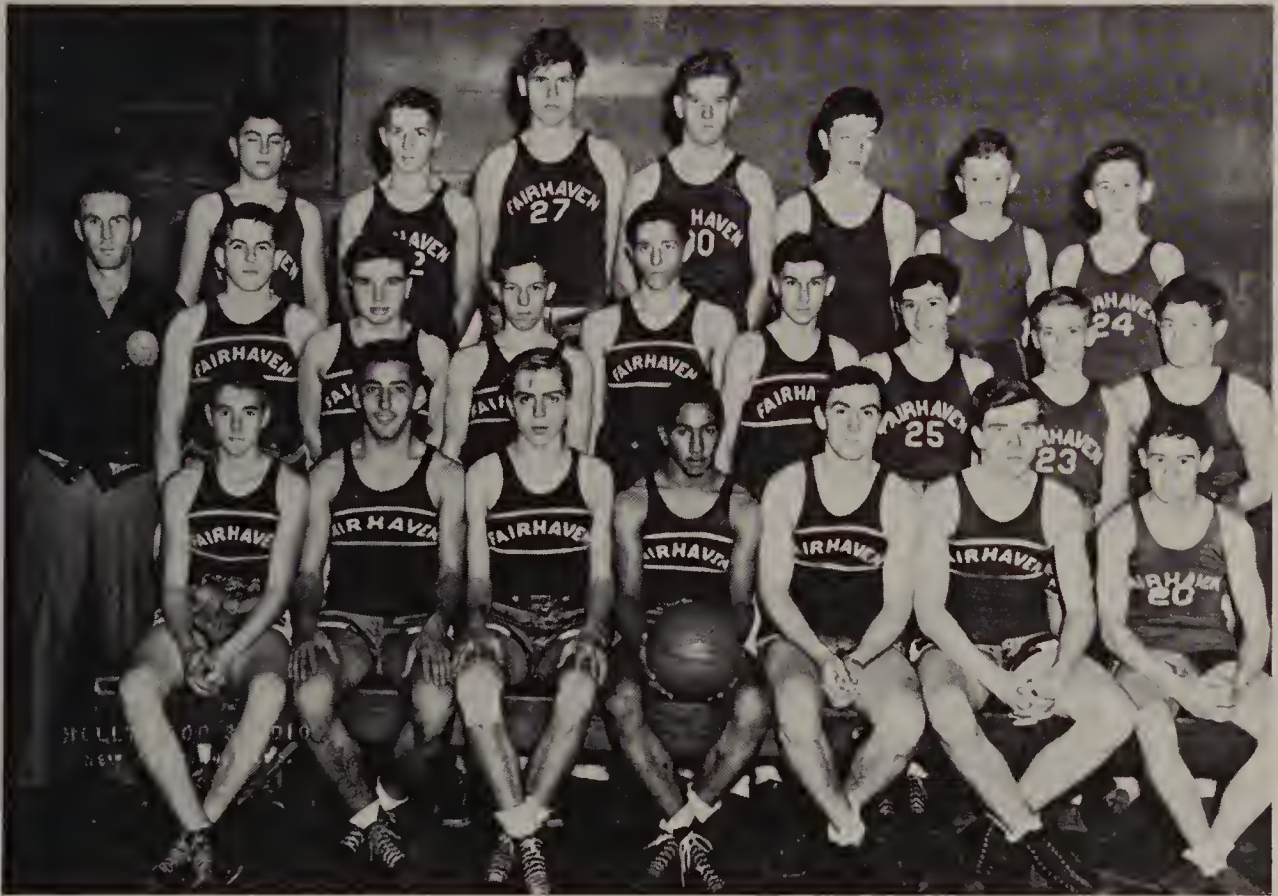

Although the loss of thirteen lettermen by graduation, and by enlistment in the armed forces will prove costly, the team of 1945 is looking forward to equalling and even surpassing this year's great record.

Daniel Mahoney, '46

Basketball

With thirteen wins and four losses to their credit as this article is being written, this year's basketball team is on its way to equalling the feat of the football team in establishing one of the best Fairhaven records in many years.

Demonstrating great speed, classy ball-handling, and accurate shooting, the team of 1944-5 has proven itself one of the top school-boy finds in Bristol County. Also showing the results of the fine coaching of Mr. Entin, it has produced many thrilling and exciting displays.

Second row: Melvin Entin, Frederick Burke, Warren Griffin, Clayton Morgan, Richard Mathieson, Alfred Bradley, Anthony Mello, Victor Slater, Samuel Rezendes.

Third row: John Mello, Edward Duval, John Drivdahl, Ernest Parker, Peter Briggs, Richard Cargill, Joseph Kobak.

Interest in the sport has increased tremendously, and a capacity crowd has attended nearly every game with over three-hundred fans being turned away from the contest with New Bedford.

With such veterans as "Jep" Lopes, Sam Gomes, Ralph Bradley, and "Dizzy" Dean leading the way, the boys are looking forward to receiving an invitation to participate in the annual M. I. T. tournament in Boston at the close of the regular season.

Daniel Mahoney, '46

Girls' Basketball

A large turnout of girls for basketball made it possible to form two leagues. After weeks of practising, a league of seven teams ran for four weeks in a Round Robin tournament. These teams were grouped according to ability. Tournament winner was Team 6 made up of Juniors and Seniors.

To conclude intramural play, an interclass league was formed. Seniors proved victors but not by too great a margin. Freshman showed their athletic ability to be great and their enthusiasm greater. Other classes should take note of the class spirit evident in the Freshman team.

The climax of our basketball season was an interscholastic game played with Tabor Academy. Fairhaven's team was made up of girls who proved outstanding within school leagues for their sportsmanship and athletic ability.

Miriam Jason, '45

Field Hockey

A late start prevented any field hockey competition with other schools this season. Our scheduled game with the Tabor Academy girls was prevented because of inclement weather.

However, weather proved no obstacle in the formation of a league of class teams. Practice games were played by the girls on Tuesdays and Thursdays for several weeks. When girls were accustomed to organized play and team work, teams were made up of mixed classes.

Standing: Margaret Jenkins, Barbara Gilston, Pauline Pifko, Janet Dunwoodie, Beryl Raybold, Shirley Raiche.

The freshman developed a fairly good team which should, in another year, afford plenty of competition for upper classes. Sophomore spirit was somewhat lacking, but this the Juniors gladly supplied.

The Seniors proved most skillful but were still topped by Juniors who proved the indisputable field hockey champions and, therefore, placed more people on the school team than any other class.

Miriam Jason, '45

The Class Will

We, the Class of 1945, of the Fairhaven High School, overlooking any minor mental defects, and taking into consideration only those characteristics of wisdom and wit with which we are so abundantly blessed, do make this our last will and testament.

- ITEM 1—To the Freshmen we bequeath our unpaid bills with many happy returns.
- ITEM 2—"Al" McQuillan leaves the path he has made to Faith Lincoln's front door to Dick Cardoza, who will not need any sign posts.
- ITEM 3—"Bill" Keane leaves his 297 monitor posts to any Freshman who did not have enough sense to stay in the Eighth Grade.
- ITEM 4—Ethel Furtado bequeaths to Harold Price the notes she gave to "Ted" Wolland by mistake.
- ITEM 5—Henry Fisher leaves the space between tackle and guard to any Junior who thinks he can find it.
- ITEM 6—"Jep" Lopes leaves his Number Ten jersey to any Sophomore who can count past nine.
- ITEM 7—Parker Eldridge and "Stretch" Morris leave their weather maps to "Squirt" Reed in case "Squirt" ever goes up in an airplane.
- ITEM 8—Phyllis Haydon leaves her biscuits to Jerry Kilburn who wants to be a bombardier.
- ITEM 9—To Joan Barnicle and "Bill" Shappell we bequeath the traditional love seat and a private 'phone line.
- ITEM 10—We bequeath Paul Ganley to the Draft Board with hopes of a brighter future.
- ITEM 11—Shirley Cowen leaves her deep-sea diving apparatus and P-T Boats as a warning to all over-ambitious Sophomores.
- ITEM 12—"Sam" Gomes leaves the keys to Room 7 to the next president of the Senior Class, praying that he may be able to guide his competitors to as glorious a finish as "Sam" did for us.

ITEM 13—Jane Ratajack and "Bob" Wenstrom leave their titles of "Best-Looking" to the two Juniors nearest approaching the standards for feminine and masculine beauty set up by the Class of 1945.

ITEM 14—Carl McDermott leaves to Mr. Entin a copy of Lincoln's "The Emancipation Proclamation" and four grey hairs.

ITEM 15—In response to many requests, I leave my base horn to the scrap drive, unless Alan Pierce gets it first.

ITEM 16—Donald Dumont leaves his Napoleonic career to any Junior who has not yet met his Waterloo.

ITEM 17—Ronald Desruisseau leaves his position as official chauffeur of the Senior Class to any Junior who can do half as well on an A card.

ITEM 18—To Mr. Wood we bequeath four pencils, a pad of after-sessions, and a copy of the "Bill of Rights".

ITEM 19—To Miss Giguere we bequeath four reels of Charles Boyer and a copy of "Frenchmen's Creek".

ITEM 20—Walter Clayton leaves to Bruce Francis all his law-suits, summons, and parking tickets.

ITEM 21—"Bob" Barnicle leaves his red corpuscles to "Sam" Rezendes, the first Junior to try to make a withdrawal at the blood bank.

In witness hereof, I have hereunto set my hand to this, the last will and testament of the Senior Class of 1945, this day, the first day of February, 1945
